[1] This amount represents Ginnie Mae's account balance with the U.S. Treasury. It includes cash and cash equivalents that are restricted by Congress, which Ginnie Mae cannot spend without approval from Congress, as well as cash and cash equivalents that are restricted temporarily, until Ginnie Mae determines the appropriate allocation for cash received.

[2] This amount represents cash collected by the MSS for Ginnie Mae but not yet received by Ginnie Mae (Deposits in transit).

[3] This amount represents cash collected by Trustee for Ginnie Mae but not yet received by Ginnie Mae (Deposits in transit).

[4] This amount represents investments in overnight certificates. It includes restricted cash and cash equivalents owed to MBS certificate holders that cannot be located by the administrator of the securities. There is no statute of limitations stating when the investor can claim this cash.

Cash held by Treasury: Ginnie Mae's cash receipts and disbursements are processed by Treasury. Cash held by Treasury represents the available budget spending authority of Ginnie Mae (obligated and unobligated balances available to finance allowable expenditures). The restricted balances represent amounts restricted for use by Ginnie Mae to certain activities.

Cash held by the MSS: There may be a time lag between when the MSS receives cash collections on behalf of Ginnie Mae such as principal, interest, and insurance claims proceeds, and when cash collections are transferred to Ginnie Mae. Ginnie Mae records an increase in cash and cash equivalents for receipts collected by the MSS, but not yet received by Ginnie Mae at the end of the reporting period.

Cash held by Trustee and Administrator of securities: There may be a time lag between when the Trustee and Administrator of securities receives cash collections for commitment fees and multiclass fees, respectively, on behalf of Ginnie Mae, and when cash collections are transferred to Ginnie Mae. Ginnie Mae records an increase in cash and cash equivalents for receipts collected by the Trustee, but not yet received by Ginnie Mae at the end of the reporting period.

U.S. Treasury short term investments: The U.S. Treasury Securities are bought and sold at composite prices received from the Federal Reserve Bank of New York. These securities are maintained in book-entry form at the Bureau of Public Debt and include U.S. Treasury overnight certificates, U.S. Treasury notes, and U.S. Treasury inflation-indexed securities (reflecting inflation compensation). Ginnie Mae has approval from the OMB to establish a Capital Reserve Fund, which has the ability to invest in overnight U.S. Government Securities. As a result of the OMB approval, Ginnie Mae invested the full balance of the Capital Reserve Fund approximately $15.8 billion and $12.8 billion, and the Liquidating fund approximately, $151.2 million and $150.7 million, as of September 30, 2016 and 2015, respectively, in overnight U.S. Government securities. As of September 30, 2016 and 2015, Ginnie Mae only holds overnight certificates. The U.S. Treasury short-term investments balance includes $23.6 million and $23.4 million of restricted cash related to unclaimed MBS security holder payments, as of September 30, 2016 and 2015, respectively. The U.S. Treasury Securities are carried at cost, which approximates its fair value.

Note 5: Restricted Cash and cash equivalents

Restricted cash and cash equivalents represents monies that are restricted to the withdrawal or usage of certain activities. The restricted cash balance consists of the following:

- Unclaimed security holder payments: Money owed to MBS certificate holders that cannot be located by the administrator of the Ginnie Mae MBS securities.
- Unapplied deposits-non-government: Cash received by Ginnie Mae held in a suspense account until the appropriate application is determined. These amounts while in the suspense account are not a part of Ginnie Mae's available cash balance.
- Collections precluded from obligation: Unobligated money within the Programs Fund balance that is restricted by Congress and cannot be utilized unless there is approval by Congress.

The balance of restricted cash and cash equivalents as of September 30, 2016 and 2015 were as follows:

(Dollars in thousands)	September 30, 2016	2015
Unclaimed security holder payments	$ 23,600	$ 23,400
Unapplied deposits-non-government	300	300
Collections precluded from obligation	522,700	409,100
Total	$ 546,600	$ 432,800

Note 6: Financial Guarantees and Financial Instruments with Off-Balance Sheet Risk (As Restated)

Ginnie Mae receives a guaranty fee from Issuers, which is calculated based on the UPB of outstanding MBS in the defaulted and non-defaulted Issuers' pooled portfolio. This guaranty fee represents compensation for taking on the risk of providing the guaranty to MBS investors for the timely payment of principal and interest in the event of Issuers' default. Ginnie Mae only guarantees securities created by approved Issuers and backed by mortgages insured by other federal programs. The underlying source of loans for the Ginnie Mae I MBS and Ginnie Mae II MBS comes from Ginnie Mae's four main MBS programs, the Single Family, Multifamily, HMBS and Manufactured Housing Programs, which serve a variety of loan financing needs and different issuer origination capabilities. Please see Note 1: Entity and Mission for more information on each program.

Ginnie Mae recognizes a guaranty asset upon issuance of a guaranty for the expected present value of these guaranty fees. The guaranty asset recognized on the Balance Sheets is $6.4 billion and $6.7 billion as of September 30, 2016 and 2015, respectively. The guaranty obligation represents the non-contingent guaranty obligation for Ginnie Mae's obligation to stand ready to perform on the guaranty. The guaranty obligation recognized on the Balance Sheets is $6.2 billion and $5.7 billion as of September 30, 2016 and 2015, respectively. After the initial measurement, the guaranty asset is recorded at fair value and the guarantee obligation is amortized based on the remaining UPB of the MBS pools. The difference in accounting for the guaranty asset and guaranty obligation subsequent to initial recognition may cause volatility in reported earnings due to different measurement attributes in reporting related financial asset (using projected economic exposures such as interest rate and prepayment speeds) and financial liability (using actual payoffs and paydowns). Refer to Note 12: Fair Value Measurement for discussion surrounding the volatility reflected in the Statements of Revenues and Expenses and Changes in Investment of U.S. Government as a result of changes in assumptions used in estimating the fair value of the guaranty asset.

For the guaranty asset and guaranty obligation recognized on the Balance Sheets, Ginnie Mae's maximum potential exposure under these guarantees is primarily comprised of the amount of MBS securities outstanding. At September 30, 2016 and 2015, the amount of securities outstanding, which is guaranteed by Ginnie Mae, was $1.7 trillion and $1.6 trillion, respectively. However, Ginnie Mae's potential loss is considerably less due to the financial strength of its Issuers. Additionally, in the event of default of an Issuer, the underlying mortgages serve as primary collateral, and FHA, USDA, VA, and PIH insurance or guaranty indemnifies Ginnie Mae for most losses.

The Ginnie Mae guaranteed security is a pass-through security whereby mortgage principal and interest payments, except for servicing and guaranty fees, are passed through to the security holders monthly. Mortgage curtailments are also passed through to security holders. As a result of the security's structure, Ginnie Mae bears no interest rate risk. Ginnie Mae's exposure to credit loss is contingent on the nonperformance of Ginnie Mae Issuers. Other than those Issuers considered in the Liability for loss on mortgage-backed securities program guaranty on the Balance Sheet, Ginnie Mae does not anticipate nonperformance by its other counterparties. Generally, terms of the guarantee range from 15 to 30 years, with a maximum term capped at 40 years.

Ginnie Mae is also subject to credit risk for its outstanding commitments to guarantee MBS, which are not reflected on its Balance Sheets. These commitments are an unrecognized MBS commitment for financial statement purposes. During the mortgage closing period and prior to granting its guaranty, Ginnie Mae enters into commitments to guarantee future MBS. The commitment ends when the securities are issued or the commitment period expires, which is 12 months from its receipt for single family Issuers and 24 months from its receipt for multifamily Issuers. Ginnie Mae's risk related to outstanding commitments is much less than for the outstanding balance of MBS commitments due in part to Ginnie Mae's ability to limit commitment authority granted to individual MBS Issuers. Outstanding MBS and commitments were as follows:

	September 30,
(Dollars in billions)	2016	2015
Outstanding MBS	$ 1,728	$ 1,609
Outstanding MBS Commitments	96	160
Total	$ 1,824	$ 1,769

If all outstanding MBS commitments were utilized, Ginnie Mae's corresponding guaranty liability at fair value, its obligation to stand ready to perform on these securities, would not exceed $352.8 million and $630.7 million as of September 30, 2016 and 2015, respectively.

The Ginnie Mae MBS serves as the underlying collateral for multiclass products, such as REMICs, Callable Trusts, Platinum Certificates, and Stripped MBS (SMBS), for which Ginnie Mae also guarantees the timely payment of principal and interest. These structured transactions allow the private sector to combine and restructure cash flows from Ginnie Mae MBS into securities that meet unique investor requirements for yield, maturity, and call-option features.

For fiscal years ended September 30, 2016 and 2015, multiclass security program issuances totaled $102.5 billion and $93.1 billion, respectively. The estimated outstanding balance of multiclass securities included in the outstanding MBS balance was $473.2 billion and $472.7 billion as of September 30, 2016 and 2015, respectively. These guaranteed securities do not subject Ginnie Mae to additional credit risk beyond that assumed under the MBS program.
